

1, UNESCO school

We, Matsumoto junior high school are a member of the UNESCO associated schools. The UNESCO associated school is a school that practices peace and cooperation to realize the idea of UNESCO.

We mainly try to save electricity and water. We always try not to forget about the importance of saving electricity and water. This is because will run out of electricity and water if we do not save. We always want to take pride in being the UNESCO school and live our lives well.

2, ESD

ESD is a learning to think and solve problems that makes it difficult for us and our descendants. ESD is education that fosters a sustainable society.

In practice of ESD, in particular the following two aspects are necessary.

First, to develop human nature such as personality development, autonomy, judgment and sense of responsibility. Second, relationships with others, society, the natural environment. people who can respect "relation" and "connection" will be raised.

To the end, it' s important to engage in interdisciplinary and comprehensive efforts not only from individual fields on sustainable development issues such as environmental education and international education, but also from various aspects of the environment, economy and society.
